

Amateur Athletic Union Makes Plea for Stadium

With its hearing room crowded with athletes of the present and past, the House Committee on Appropriations yesterday heard the advocates of a bill introduced by Representative Murray Hurlbert, of New York, to appropriate $1,435,000 to construct a great stadium and athletic field in East Potomac Park in this city. The proponents of the bill say that if it becomes a law there is an excellent chance of bringing the Olympic games of 1920 to this country. It is also planned to stage the annual football contests between the Army and Navy in the National Capital.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, president of the Navy League, deplored the fact today that this game cannot be played in Washington.

"The annual game between the Army and Navy," he said, "should not be regarded as a spectacle to be seen first in one city and then another. It should be played in Washington and the passage of this bill will make this possible."

Everett J. Wendell, one time famous as a runner and the winner of the 220-yard and 440-yard races in the Olympic games in Athens, a number of years ago, appeared as one of the representatives of the Olympic games committee. He said it could not be definitely promised at this time that the Olympic contest of 1920 would be brought to Washington, but Mr. Wendell asserted that he had received intimations that if proper stadium facilities were afforded this great sporting classic will come to the United States—a country that has been neutral throughout the war.

"The next Olympic contest," he said, "should be staged in the city of Washington, the capital of this great neutral country, and should be sponsored by the President of the United States. The rulers of foreign countries lend their support to these contests when they are held abroad."

In a discussion of the Stockholm games, Col. Thompson estimated that fifty per cent of the athletes who participated in the meet there in 1912

MILITARY HUNTERS TO BE SHOWN AT MARLBORO

Hunt Steeplechase Also a Feature of Annual Fair—Five Days of Racing.

Upper Marlboro, Md., May 12.—The program for the horse show, which will be the big feature of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association's fair here, May 25 to 30, has been issued and entries are being received by Secretary William G. Brooke. The show will be the most pretentious yet ever given by the association. There are sixteen classes, for which first prizes of $25 and second prizes of $15 are offered. These include contests for ponies, saddle and harness horses, hunters and high jumpers. There will also be a hunters steeplechase, gentlemen riders, at a mile and a half, for a purse of $100.

Of special interest is the military hunting class, open to the officers of the military establishments of all countries, riders to wear dress uniforms.

In addition to all the usual features of the fair a free scholarship in some educational institution will be offered for competition among residents of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Prince Georges and St. Mary's counties.

On each of the five days of the fair there will be a program of running races, in which will be seen many of the thoroughbreds now racing at Pimlico. All of the stalls at the fair grounds have been engaged and nearly 200 horses will take part in the meet.

MARYLAND AGGIES PLAY MT. ST. JOSEPH

College Park, Md., May 12.—After an intermission of two weeks, occasioned by the annual track meet and other school activities the Maryland Agricultural College baseball team will get into action here tomorrow, when the fast Mt. St. Joseph's College nine will oppose them. Hornhewer, who has proved the most consistent hurler on the Aggies' staff, will likely be Byrd's choice for mound duty, while it is thought the Josephites intend to pitch Gibbon.

Turf Enthusiasts Await the Running of Kentucky Derby

Louisville, Ky., May 12.—Louisville is teeming tonight with thousands of turf enthusiasts from all sections of the nation who are watching the clouds hoping that tomorrow will be a clear day and that the track will be fast for the forty-second Kentucky Derby. Out of the sixty-five that were named for the classic, twelve were named through the entry box today. If the track is heavy, all will start, and if fast nine will go. The forecast tonight says showers for tomorrow.
